During a typhoon in November she broke loose and drifted out to sea. Due to the outbreak of World War II it was decided that the scrap value of the ship was more important than her historical value, so she was sold. Given their limited displacement, the Indiana class had formidable armament for the time:

Her hulk was sold for scrap on 19 March. In March the Oregon returned to Asiatic waters. The time capsule is scheduled to be opened on 5 July Le Guin Hall S.

In June she was loaned to the State of Oregon where she was housed as a floating monument. Oregon stopped very briefly in Salvador, Brazil and then proceeded to Barbados for a final coal resupply. In a movement was begun to preserve the battleship as an object of historic and sentimental interest, and to lay her up permanently at some port in the state of Oregon.
